New principal investigators are eager to do research, but are often stunned at the administrative and personnel tasks that take up so much time when running a lab. By learning more about the requirements of being a lab manager and mentor, establishing their own practical and ethical framework, and practicing time management, conflict mediation, and other overlooked skills, new PIs can be more effective in the lab and in science.

February 6th

Kathy Barker, Ph.D.
Author

Author of At the Bench: A Laboratory Navigator and At the Helm: A Laboratory Navigator, Kathy Barker received her Ph.D. from the University of Massachusetts and was an Assistant Professor in the Laboratory of Cell Physiology and Immunology at Rockefeller when, inspired by the frustrated conversations among scientists, she left the lab to write.

The Ph.D. Career Planning Series is a collaborative project of:

- Academic Services, UCLA Graduate Division
- The California NanoSystems Institute (CNSI)
- The Society of Postdoctoral Scholars at UCLA
- David Geffen School of Medicine, Office of Postdoctoral Affairs
